The house committee to investigate alleged hazing of Cadet Boos at West Point expects to begin its inquiry at West Point during the holidays.

The president, on the 10th, transnitted to congress extended reports on the agricultural resources of Porto Rico, with special reference to the establishment there of an agricultural experiment station.

Mr. Degetau, the newly-elected commissioner from Porto Rico, made his appearance at the capitol, in Washington, on the 14th, for the first time, and was cordially welcomed by senators and representatives.

A rich land owner at Termini, near Palermo, Italy, has been kidnaped by brigands on his own property. His servants fled in dismay at the appearance of the band. Troops have been sent in pursuit of the brigands.

The late Robert Arlington, an eccentric gentleman of Leeds, England, who lived in a miserly manner in order to be able to devote his wealth to foreign missions, has left the London Missionary society over £250,000.

Edward Lloyd, the well-known tenor, gave a farewell concert in London on the 12th. Mr. Llyod's voice showed no diminution of power or quality; but he is tired of public life, and retires to engage in the raising of fancy cattle.

Another serious landslide has occurred in Helioland. Thirty houses have been engulfed, and a considerable part of the island has been submerged. It has been impossible to send relief, and the losses have not yet been determined.

In presenting his report of the past four years of his administration, President Diaz says that Mexico's aim has been to develop public weal, diffuse edcuation, preserve peace, and, incidentally, to foster cordial relations with the United States.

The pension appropriation bill was sompleted, on the 13th, by the house sub-committee on appropriations having it in charge, after a hearing from Commissioner of Pensions Evans. It carries about $145,250,000, of which about $144,000,000 is for pensions and the balance for admistration.

The supreme court of Ohio, on the 11th, dismissed the proceedings brought by former Attorney-General Monett, charging that the Standard Oil Co. was in contempt of court for having failed to comply with an order, issued in 1892, directing a dissolution of the Standard Oil trust.

The Iowa state agricultural convention, at Des Moines, adopted resolutions, on the 12th, favoring the creation of a national park at the headwaters of the Mississippi river, and the concentration of the control of government forest reservations under the department of agriculture.

The vote of New York, as announced by the state board of canvassers, on the 12th, shows the following totals: For president-McKinley, republican, 821,992; Bryan, democrat, 678,386; Malloney, social labor, 12,622; Woolley, prohibition, 22,043; Debs, social democrat, 12,869. McKinley's plurality, 143,-

The close of the exposition, throwing thousands out of employment, has created abnormal criminal conditions in Paris. Crime is rampant at all hours, especially in the suburbs. The officials of the prefecture of police calculate that 2,000 sufferers from the exposition have joined the criminal

The report that the remains of 1,-500 soldiers were brought home from the Philippines by the transport Hancock, is declared to be without foundation. The vessel brought only 11 corpses, ten being those of persons who died en route, and one which was transferred to the Hancock from the hospital ship Relief at Nagasaki.

Wheat is growing so rank in the Arkansas valley wheat belt, embracing territory that produced over forty million bushels last year, that the farmers are advertising to take stock free for the purpose of eating it down. The indications at this time for the crop are 25 per cent. more favorable than they were at the same time last year.

The Washington auxiliary to the National Red Cross association, on the 11th, sent $1,000 to Mr. John Seely, chairman of the relief committee at Galveston, Tex., to be used in providing shelter for the homeless. Another thousand will be sent soon by the auxiliary, which is receiving contributions from all parts of the United

A young Indian near Grand Rapids, Lake Winnibegoshish, Man., recently shot a moose, almost entirely white, and considered by the Indians to be sacred. When the fact became known in his tribe, there was great commotion, and he was tried by a council of medicine men, and will have to undergo a series of punishments of a must cruel character, which may cause his death.

The will of the late Senator Cushman K. Davis, who died November 27, was filed for probate at St. Paul, Minn., on the 12th, by Mrs. Anna M. Davis, the widow. The will, which is very concise, and was made during the senator's last illness, leaves all his estate to Mrs. Davis, and names the St. Paul Trust Co. as executor. The estate is valued at $25,000 in personal and $40,000 in real property.

With imposing ceremonies, on the 12th, the national capital celebrated the centennial anniversary of the founding of the seat of the federal government in Washington. The exercises combined a brilliant military parade, a review by the president from the east front of the capitol and orations in the hall of the house of representatives, with a reception at the Corcoran art gallery at night.

We live here with our parents, in a house 'at's painted green, An' of all the boys 'at ask fer toys we're the best you ever seen! 'An' so, we thought we'd tell you jus' what to bring, 'cos we Know 'at you have a heap to do, an' busy as kin be!

We know you're hitchin' up your team, an purty soon you'll leave, An' these things is thes all we want—thes all-on Chris'mus Eve:

Two little drums, An' sugar plums An' a slate 'at won't do any sums; An' a Hobby Hoss

You kin ride across, 'bicycles, an' balls to toss; An' a steamer-boat (Like the ones 'at float), An' a wagon hitched to a Billy Goat;

An' tops to spin (What they's music in), An' a climbin' monkey, dressed in tin;

An' two toy-guns (Like the Jones's ones), An' a railroad train 'at winds an' runs; An' a slidin' sled 'At's painted red,

An' a bran'-new little trundle bed; Horns, whistles, drums, An' sugar-plums-Bring all you've got when Chris'mus come

'We thes thought that we'd tell you, 'con you got so much to do, An' all the little boys an' girls is writin' notes to you; We was 'fraid you might forget us, while you're hitchin' up to leave; But them things is thes all we want—the all-on Chris'mus Eve!" -Frank L. Stanton, in Atlanta Constitution T WAS very silly of me to faint,' Mrs. Merrie said, tremulously,"and quite as silly for you all to send for a doctor! I never did such a thing in my life before! It just seemed like everything went, all on a sudden! I hain't been rale strong, some way, for a long time."

"No," Dr. Temple answered, quietly. "But it don't do to give up! What with the fruit season and harvestin', thrashin' and the like, there's a sight to do. I don't see why I have this give down now-just at Christmas! It's too bad!"

"And may be worse," the physician replied, his keen glance resting on the sewing machine piled high with unfinished work. "Mrs. Merrie, if your friend over there fell to squeaking, grinding and snapping thread, should you go on working at full speed?"

"Why, that wouldn't be very smart in me, sir, to wear it out! I should stop and oil!"

"Thou sayst the thing I mean! Your old worn-out body bids you beware. I'm not going to give you any medicine. You need rest-absolute rest. I advise you to accept the good cheer of the season; leave home, and take a vacation."

Four solemn young faces turned blankly to the stern one of the man of science. Mother leave home! Jack and Joe, Jim and Jerry (diminutives of Jacqueline, Josephine, Jemima and Jerusha, the "Merry Jays") grasped the situation at once, and realized its hopelessness. It is all very well for a rich man to prescribe rest and change, but another matter to follow his advice when the purse is flabby and family cares crying with a voice which will not be comforted. A piteous little smile drew down the corners of Mrs. Merrie's mouth.

"Oh, fix me out a little quinine, doctor, or calomel! You know I can't leave home! Christmas is here, and the poor children have been slaving away at their books and must have their good time. I'm all right."

Dr. Temple snapped the straps of his case and arose. "When you collapse again," he said, coldly, "you had better call another doctor-one who will give calomel."

ferry, youngest of the Jays, had been standing remorsefully by her mother's chair. "I know what Dr. Temple thinks," she said, valiantly. "He thinks if you cannot rest-with grown-up daughters-your case is hopeless, and he gives it up. You can follow the advice; she shall have her vacation, sir!"

"Spoken like a man!" the doctor answered, heartily. (Jerry wore her hair cut close, and walked and talked with a slight swagger.) "Take care of her: mothers are not a drug in the market. I will go now-good day, friends! I hope to see roses on those cheeks before spring comes."

"What a very absurd man!" the nother exclaimed, dropping weakly back against the pillow. "Why did you send for him, girls?"

"Because," Jerry answered, rising to the height of self-accusation, "because we needed some one to tell us hand's turn. And in vacation-oh," with a remorseful groan-"last vacation I made crazy quilts!"

"And very pretty they were, too, I'm sure. What's the matter with you all? I ain't complainin'!" "Of course not. But we're guilty all the same. She shall have her vacation-what do you say, girls?" "Christmas or no Christmas!" was the verdict.

"Last summer," Jim remarked, and kept my hands white. It's ma's "But ma ain't agoin' to your Cousin here. I see me a-askin' your poor pa for money!" The word "money" brought a frown to four faces. "Well, we'll get supper and talk it over," Joe said, sober-

"Ma" was nothing loath. It was

ly. "You lie still and rest."

patted her hand. "Here's your toast and tea, mothlittle boys in blue, An' we thought wa'd
write a letter,
'fore Christmas'

Accided about 11. vented argument.

"Well," she said, fumbling with the

They would not let her prepare the pack! Why didn't you remind us you need clothes sometimes? But Jim and I are cast in your mold; we've hunted you out some of our things. I'm going to give you my red merino wrapper to lounge in." "Land sakes! I think you-all's money to pay for a trip, anyhow?" Joe nodded brightly. "Never you which shocked the mind, Mrs. Merrie; this is our little habit of patience. affair. We've arranged for the nicest boarding-place, where you can enjoy the first quiet Christmas of your maryour board is paid. Pa says you may my board is paid-" stay as long as you want to." "I reckon you-all will have your own way," the mother grumbled.

"The money must come out of poor Jack's hard earnings, or your pa make a sacrifice. You might tell me where I'm going, anyhow! And I wonder if your royal highness and his majesty, very pleasant lying there in the twi-light, watching the shadows clasp marked, with a wink. "If she don't we just can't have our boarders clushands and dance along the rafters. hump herself we'll be at headquar- tering up the kitchen on busy days, Even the odor of camphor, suggestive ters afore she gits started!" But by and will take it as a favor if you'll go of illness, did not trouble her. The and by visions of dinner and a fire- back to your own quarters and get room grew very quiet. She was a side appealed to him coaxingly, and ready for a little outing. You haven't little girl again, out in her father's he decided Christmas might find its seen your old crony, Mary Ann Griggs, boat hunting pond lilies, when Jim way unattended. He put the horse since she moved away, have you? Jerinto a trot, and after awhile the road grew familiar. Mrs. Merrie held her peace till they were fairly in the lane leading home. talked it all over with pa, and have "Have you forgotten anything?" decided about your vacation. You are she asked, dryly, suspecting a practical side and sends to resent it. to have one. We will take you off tical joke, and ready to resent it. to-morrow." Luxurious idleness pre- John helped her down carefully and set her grip on the horse-block. "Not a bit of it!" he answered, heartily. cup. "How white the lilies are! Well "I started with the best little woman in the world, and have fetched back Mrs. Merrie found herself helpless ever' bit of her! Here's yer boardin' in the hands of husband and children. house, missus, board paid in advance!" The noise of their arrival brought morning meal, and it was a novel four rosy young faces to the door. sensation to lie and listen to the Jack (the oldest Jay) ran laughing cheerful sounds from the kitchen. to the gate, and kissed her mother

Joe sang as she bustled about, and on the cheek. "Our new boarder!" came in presently, an open valise in she said, taking the valise. "Come right in! I hope you will like us, and "I'm packing your things, mother," enjoy your vacation. These are my she announced. "It's just awful to sisters, Josephine, Jemima and Jediscover how few things you have to rusha. I'm Jack! Come in here and lay off your wraps. This is ma's room -when she's home. Over there is your sitting-room. Are you much tired or cold?"

Mrs. Merrie was a Jay herself, as capable of enjoying a bit of delicate humor as the rest of them. So this gone stark starin' mad!" Mrs. Merrie was the solving of the problem, the protested petulantly. "You can't vacation which was to cost nothing! send me off against my will, I reckon! She turned away her face after the And where is there to go to-and first laugh, that they might not witness the passing of the swift storm which shocked through the gentle

"No, I am neither cold nor tired." she said, after that pause. "I am sure I shall like my boarding house ried life. As to the money-well, if you think-if you truly believe-

"In advance," four voices chorused. "You have been saving up and paying for 20 years!" Jack whispered, tenderly, looking into her eyes. "Oh, we feel-we understand-what you have always been to us!"

Here Jerry pushed determinedly to the front. "I am to attend you, Dr. Temple, and his grace, John Mer- ma'am," she said. "Your board bill rie, will let me take my knittin' includes service. If the young ladies along? 'Cause if you-all don't I sha'n't and the big male-Jay will please to your fine company." Joe smiled as she tucked Jesse's to rest. ed baby-

ing up the cart."

resigned silence. There was a taint quished. of affectation in her resistance, for unfrom our dearest.

trodden on her heart for 20 years.

There were no tears, save those Mis. into the emptied measure of her life. Merrie softly let fall in weak self- Back before her cozy fire (which was driven off at a rattling pace, and Dreams overtook her -. only color she wore. The fog hung she slept, and the little house hushed low, dropping tears. Not a pleasant itself as though life or death were at how selfish we are! In school, every day, yet a sense of exhilaration came issue. Even Jesse never once halone of us not a soul to give you a to her. It was a novel sensation to looed, or stamped his boots, or whisbe driving thus, without so much as tled, for which unprecedented good a chicken or a basket of eggs as an behavior Jack gave him a penny, an excuse. There was almost the spice drew a long chalk mark on the smokeof wickedness to make her ride house door.

> "There's old Markle's mill." John observed, checking the horse. "Old apartments of the new boarder. Now Markle he don't keep her up like he she was sure it was turkey, now it used to. She's a-gittin' crazy lookin', seemed to be mince pie and hot cake. the old mill is. If that was my memorable

He rambled on cheerfully. gravely, "I went off to Cousin Vic's, Merrie scarcely heard. The dim landscape was like a picture seen in child-hood—soft-shrouded, unreal, yet delicately beautiful. She drew a short, ly to have mammy back in the kitch-Vie's," Mrs. Merrie announced, resolutely. "Ma's agoin' to stay right hard?" she faltered. "Look out! God has crowded His world with pleasant things!"

"Well, I dunno!" he answered. "Git long, Poke-easy! D'ye reckon we're in such a rush to git we can't stop, and run on past?"

The ride was a long one.

know what to do with my hands in | clear out I'll take off your damp clothes and make you comfortable.' The red wrapper came into play half-finished sock into the grip. "Oh, likewise Joe's dainty beribboned knit yes! you can take it. There won't slippers. The new boarder sank luxbe company, though; we want you uriously into the big rocker (commonly occupied by one of the girls) and "And whatever is to become of the stretched her feet to the warmth. work-and the sewing-and my bless- Opposite her hung a mirror, and from time to time she glanced wondering-"Jess is no baby-a great six-year- ly at the face reflected there. It old boy! It's a pity, ma, if we can't was not, after all, the face of an old take care of things! This is your woman, although it had exchanged medicine, and you shall take it, if we the crude pink of youth for the inhave to hold your nose! There, now; definable delicacy of maturity. The I want to get you ready. Pa is bring- eyes met hers, full of light, and about the mouth were those wistful lines

Mrs. Merrie submitted herself in which tell of dreams not yet relin-From one new thought to another. der all was a lurking sense of pleas- She realized all at once that the room ure. Well, why not accept the rest had been prepared for her reception. and change? There come times in our There were the "company shams" on lives when it is profitable to hide the bed, Jim's geraniums in the window, little loving touches everywhere, Joe's soft touches on her head Sitting there so quietly she grew consmoothed out the worry-wrinkles scious of Jesse's black eye applied to from a prematurely aged brow. By the crack of the door, and further surthe time Mr. Merrie came in she could vey revealed his little butterfly kite answer the twinkle in his eye. He hung up for her delight. The lump was a good-humored giant, who, in in her throat had climbed so high she sublime unconsciousness and with hadn't voice left to thank Joe for the the best intentions in the world, had cup of coffee which was to "drive out the cold." "Come on, old lady!" he said, shrug- Dinner was substantially a failure ging into his overcoat. "We'll be rid artistically a success. The big maleyou and yer faintin' spells in a Jay made a wry mouth over the saljiffy! Wrap her up warm, girls; it low bread and soggy potatoes, but his ain't none too pleasant abroad. Not mate had no criticism to offer. To that mother's one o' yer deliky carry- her it was a glorified feast, for she me-easy kind! Here's her thing-um- ate and drank the fruits of her labor bob. Now git through the kissin'." | -her children's love, poured back pity. Was it really so easy to let her Jerry religiously kept burning) she go? She looked back wistfully as she accepted the blessedness of rest. saw the old house dissolve into the "Climbed over the window sill." es general gray. Nature had turned caping into the fair, lost land of child-Quaker this day, and gray was the hood. Through the whole afternoon

> Early next morning tantalizing little oders began to sneak into the

Then she remembered it was Christmas eve, and rolled up her knitting decisively. "The dear girls!" she thought. 'They'll burn up and spoil everything they undertake! They'll not be sor-

But she had reckoned without her host. The door between her and the kitchen was locked, and when she attempted the dining-room entry Jack stopped her decidedly at the thresh-"I beg your pardon," she said, ry wants to drive you down there in the cart to spend the day."

Mrs. Merrie's eyes lighted with pleasure. "Well, really," she admitted, "if you won't let me help you-all I should like to see Mary Ann-powerful well! really should enjoy to go!"

Jerry brought her back in the early twilight and hustled her off to bed, and again sleep brought its healing. Christmas morning came in with soft unsandaled feet. All the earth was wrapped in the whiteness of snow. The Christ-child was born anew, and the great Mother, tenderly, in the hours of darkness, had spread her softest coverlet about His feet.

Four bright-eyed faces, with Jesse below and the big male-Jay above, peeped in, and the simultaneous shout of "Christmas Gift!" brought Mrs. Merrie up from among her blankets. "Well, I never!" she ejaculated. "I reckon this is the first Christmas youall ever caught ma a-nappin'! I ain't got no Christmas for you neitherthink of that!"

"Never mind," Jesse soothed. 'We've got"-but Joe had him by the shoulders, and shook his mouth shut. There would have been instant war then, but-well, Jesse knew what he knew, and the balance of power remained unmistakably with the girls. The dining-room door remained obstinately locked all day. Breakfast was eaten in the snug little kitchen. dinner served in state in the parlor. There were no guests at all save old Granny Woods, a half blind pauper, who always presented herself on recognized holidays, and was served with the best.

During the progress of the meal the tempting, secretive odors unveiled themselves. King Gobbler had yielded to the inevitable, and, more lovely in death than in life, adorned the center of a generous feast. "A reg'lar blowout," as Jesse expressed it, and there were no failures this time. The energy and talent of the whole family of Jays (minus its head) went to the making of a success so brilliant as to mark an epoch. "Just see what you-all can do!" Mrs. Merrie said over and over, her eyes bright with pride. "Why, I can't hold candle to such cookin' as this!"

But the day was to crown itself with greener laurels. Each year since their infancy she had planned surprises for them; now had come the hour to reverse the story. When the lamps were lit they took her into the diningroom, where a handsome tree gleamed with light and color. The fact that there were more candles, tinsel paper and popcorn balls than presents did not detract from its beauty. Behind it on the wall was the legend: "Mother's Christmas," wrought in evergreen. Mother sat down in the big new rocker, cushioned with one of Jerry's conscience-stricken crazy quilts, and yielded to tears. "Mother," Jack said, tenderly, kneeling beside her, "our selfishness was undriving you to death! In our hurry to get an education we-forgot. You know my poor little pay as country school-teacher barely dresses us, but I can see my way plain to hire help for you while we are at school. You beieve we love you, don't you, mother?"

"Yes," she answered, huskily. "Yes, yes! Whoever doubted it? And I-oh, what does anything matter, so we love each other?" So this sweet Christmas passed into memory, and shone there, a rainbow promise that the flood should no more engulf one mother's soul .- M. Howard Sheppard, in Ladies' World, New York.

ORIGIN OF SANTA CLAUS.

Why He Is Represented as an Oid Man-Name Is the Dutch for

Santa Claus is of German origin This is true if only because that is the Dutch name for St. Nicholas. That he is an old man is because in the ancient pagan feasts in celebration of the deray of the old year and the birth of the new an old man played the principal part. Among the Greeks and Romans it was Saturn, the father of all the gods, and among the Germans it was Thor, who was long-bearded and white-haired. The tradition of hoary age as appropriate for representation of the dving year was too strong to be driven away by the new figure of the Christ child, which was a feature of the early church observances. That the saint is St. Nicholas is due to the fact that that venerable personage's feast day was celebrated at about that period. St. Nicholas was a bishop of Myra, who flourished early in the fourth century. He is the patron saint of children and schoolboys, and hence it was natural that he should be a part of a celebration when the children received gifts and when they were al lowed to be "heard as well as seen." The practice of making presents on that day undoubtledly owes its origin to the general idea to carry into practice the Biblical mandate: "Peace on earth; good will to men." At first the great lords made presents to their retainers, and the season was marked by universal charity. By degrees the practice of Christmas giving spread until now everybody gives their friends presents.-N. Y. Mail and Express.

BEST HE COULD PROMISE.

"Papa," said Benny Bloobumper, " vant a big bess drum for Christman" "I'm afraid you can't have that," replied Mr. Bloobumper, "but you may with polite severity. "You rented the have a big turkey drumstick."-De roll "We're parlor and bedroom only, I think. In- Tribune.

CAPITOL BUILDING, SALEM, OREGON.

A Letter From the Executive Office of Oregon. The Governor of Oregon is an ardent admirer of Peruna. He keeps it continually in the house. In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman he says: STATE OF OREGON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, SALEM, May 9, 1898.

The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O .: pour Peruna medicine in my family for colds, and it proved to be an excellent remedy. I have not had occasion to use it for other ailments. Yours very truly, Any man who wishes perfect health must be entirely free from catarrh. Catarrh is well-nigh universal; almost omnipresent. well-nigh universal; almost omnipresent. themselves with a copy of Dr. Hartman's Pe-ru-na is the only absolute safeguard free book, entitled "Winter Catarrh." Ad-cures catarrh, but prevents. Every household should be supplied with this great remedy for coughs, colds, and so forth.

It will be noticed that the Governor says he has not had occasion to use Peru-na for other ailments. The reason for this is, most other ailments begin with a cold. Using Peru-na to promptly cure colds, he protects his family against other ailments. This is exactly what every other family in the United States should do. Keep Pe-ru-na in the house. Use it for coughs, colds, la grippe, and other climatic affections of winter, and there will be no other ailments in the house. Such families should provide known. A cold is the beginning of catarrh. dress Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

Horrible Fate.

Mrs. Marryat—We're thinking of naming he baby Mary, after John's mother. Mrs. Newitt—O! horrors! That would be awful.

"Why, what do you mean?"

"Gracious! She'l! be 'Mamed' for life."— Philadelphia Press.

TOUR OF ALL MEXICO Pullman's finest Compartment Drawing Room, Library, Observation and Dining Cars—all Vestibuled—with the celebrated Open Top Car "Chililitli" for Observation in the Mountains and Canons and Dining Car in the Tropics.

A delightful trip of 38 days with Three Circle Tours in the Tropics of the South of Mexico and a Visit to the Ruined Cities.

All exclusive features of these itineraries of leisurely travel and long stops—The Special Train starts Tuesday, January 22, from Chicago.

Special Pullman Cars leave Chicago Thursday, January 17, and Thursday, February 14, at 9:30 a. m., connecting with the splendid new steamships Ponce and San Juan sailing from New York the second day following. Individual Tickets sold for other sailing dates, alternate Saturdays.

Tour of Puerto Rico.

Tickets Include All Expenses Everywhere. These select limited parties will be under the special escort and management of The American Tourist Association. Reau Camp-bell, General Manager, 1423 Marquette Building, Chicago. Itineraries, Maps and Tickets can be had on application to Agents of the Chicago, Milwaukre & St. Paul R'y.

TRADE.

An interesting textile exposition is to be held in Atlanta, Ga., in 1902. The German pencil trade is suffering severely from the competition of American lead pencil makers. For cotton seed in its natural state, the export demand, though unimportant, has shown a steady decrease during the past six years.

We have surpassed France in the production of articles needed by the outside world as well as those required by our own people. During the last century the balance of trade has been on the side of the United States with greater frequency than in any other country. The principal countries which show an excess of exports over imports are Canada, Mexico, Argentine, Chili, Australasia, India, Egypt, Spain, Austria, Hungary and Russia. The imports of this republic in 1800 were nearly two-thirds as much as those of Great Britain, while at the end third. At the same time our exports have increased three times as rapidly as those of Great Britain. There is a popular impression that the French surpass all others in supplying their own necessities and furnishing their own luxuries, but figures wife to health and strength. He heard show that their dependence upon foreign nations has been increasing with the years, and that the balance of trade is now largely against them.

THE AGES OF SAGES.

Hobbes wrote his "Human Intellect"

La Rochefoucald, at 52, published his 'Reflections.' Seneca, between 50 and 60, wrote his "Consolations." Malthus published his great work on "Population" at 32. Aristotle, after long thought, began his great series at 50.

Diderot began the "Encyclopedia" at 38 and finished it at 56. Hegel, before 30, had laid out the outlines of his system of philosophy.

his best works between 40 and 50. At 42 Kant began and at 52 he completed his great work, "Critique of Hume began "Human Nature" at 23.

Jacobi, the "German Plato," wrote and, after seven years of labor, completed it at 30. Plato, between 20 and 40, was with Boerates, and taught philosophy between 40 and 88 or 89. Shaftesbury at 22 entered the house commons and exhibited great energy; at 38, published his work on "Tribute and Merit," and at 38 the "Monarchist."

Condillac at 12 years, on account of his feeble health, could not read; at 31, published his "Origin of Human Knowledge;" at 39 his "Sensation." His later works were of less account.

FIGURES.

There are now 68,403 post offices in the United States. Of these 2,621 were added last year. The steamboat inspection service of this country has 9,253 steamers and 15,000 boilers under its charge. Estimates of the largest wine makers in Calfornia indicate that the wine production of the state this year will reach between 13,500,000 and 15,-000,000 gallons of dry wine and 7,000, 600 gallons of sweet wine.

Vice Versa. Tigg-There's one good thing about these college yells.

Wigg—What is it?

"They can't sing those glee songs while they are yelling."—Baltimore American.

The Best Prescription for Chills and Fever is a bottle of Grove's Tasteless CHILL TORIC. It is simply iron and quinine in atasteless form. No cure—no pay. Price,50c.

An Unjust Charge. "Penelope is so abominably mannish."
"Mannish! I wish you could see her carve."—Denver Times.

Each package of PUTNAM FADELESS DYES colors either Silk, Wool or Cotton perfectly. Sold by all druggists.

Genuine charity is after all not so very particular as to where it begins.—Detroit Journal. Twain at the Telephone.

Twain at the Telephone.

While living at his home at Hartford, Conn., Mark Twain was one morning deep in the composition of some humorism from which he expected a good deal, when he was called to the telephone. He told the servant to receive the message and bring it to him, but in a few moments was informed that the party at the other end of the wire wanted him. Provoked at the interruption, Mark went to the telephone, and, after "helloing" for some time without an answer, he used some language not generally seen in print, but which was certainly picturesque. While thus engaged he heard an answer in astonished tones and recognized the voice of an eminent divine whom he knew very well. "Is that you, doctor?" questioned Mr. Clemens. "I didn't hear what you said. My butler has been at the telephone and said he couldn't understand you."

AN ENEMY TO DRINK

One Woman who has Done a Great Deal to put Down this Evil.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 17, 1900 (Special).-When the Independent Order of Good Templars of Minnesota wanted a State Organizer, they chose Mrs. Laura J. Smith, of 1217 West 33rd Street, this city. The American Anti-Treat League also selected Mrs. Smith as National Organizer. The reason is not far to seek. This gifted woman has devoted her life to a battle against Drink and Drinking Habits. Her influence for good in Minnesota is and has been very far reaching. About two years ago, however, it seemed as if this noble woman would have to give up her philanthropic work. Severe pains in her back and under her shoulder blades, made life a burden of the century they are less than one- and work impossible. Physicians were consulted, and they prescribed for Kidney Disease. Three months' treatment, however, failed to give Mrs. Smith any relief. Her husband was much exercised, and cast about him for something that would restore his good of the cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and advised her to try them, which she did. She is now a well woman and says: "Two weeks after I commenced taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, I felt much better, and at the end of seven weeks was completely cured. I have had no recurrence of the trouble, but I take a pill off and on, and find that it keeps me good health."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers at 50 cents a box. They are easily within the reach of all, and no woman can afford to suffer, when such a simple and sure Remedy

SECURITY.

Genuine Carter's Little Liver Pills.

OURE SICK HEADA